Principal's Foreword

Bundaberg North State High School is committed to producing outstanding learners, achievements and futures for students in Bundaberg. We believe strong, positive and supportive relationships between all members of our school are the foundation to supporting these outcomes. Through the provision of an inclusive, safe, supportive, progressive learning environment, Bundaberg North State High School prepares students to be innovative, entrepreneurial, life-long learners, who are resilient and responsible global citizens.

Bundaberg North State High School has three core values: respect, responsibility and safety.

Respect Treat others as you would like to be treated, be polite and be proud of your school.

Responsibility Be accountable for your actions, be trustworthy, be organised and follow instructions.

Safety Take care of yourself, the people around you and your school environment

These values have been used in the development of this Student Code of Conduct, with the aim of helping shape and build the skills of all our students to be confident, self-disciplined and kind young people. Our school staff believe that communication and positive connections with other people are the most valuable skills our communities need now and in the future.

Bundaberg North State High School staff take an educative approach to discipline, that behaviour can be taught and that mistakes are opportunities for everyone to learn. Our Student Code of Conduct provides an overview of the school's local policies on use of mobile phones and other technology, removal of student property and the approach to preventing and addressing incidents of bullying. It also details the steps school staff take to educate students about these policies and how students are explicitly taught the expected behaviours. Finally, it details the consequences that may apply when students breach the expected standards of behaviour, including the use of suspension or exclusion.

I thank the students, teachers, parents and other members of the community for their work in bringing this Bundaberg North State High School Student Code of Conduct together over the last six months. Your interest and views shared through the process of developing this document have been invaluable. It provides a clear explanation of what we expect from students and how we will support them to meet those expectations.

P&C Statement of Support

As president of the Bundaberg North State High School P&C Committee, I am proud to support the new Student Code of Conduct.

We encourage all parents to familiarise themselves with the Bundaberg North State High School Student Code of Conduct, and to take time to talk with their children about the expectations and discuss any support they may need.

Any parents who wish to discuss the Bundaberg North State High School Student Code of Conduct and the role of families in supporting the behavioural expectations of students are welcome to contact myself or to join the Bundaberg North State High School P&C Association. It is with your support that we can work collaboratively with school staff to ensure all students are safe and appropriately supported to meet their individual social and learning needs.

Data Overview

Bundaberg North State High School is committed to the principles of transparency and accountability within the school community. This includes reporting key measures related to student discipline, safety and wellbeing using existing data sets available to all schools.

The Parent, Student and Staff Satisfaction data in the tables below is drawn from the School Opinion Survey. The School Opinion Survey is an annual collection designed to obtain the views of parents/caregivers, students and school staff from each school on what they do well and how they can improve.

Opinions on the school, student learning, and student wellbeing are sought from a parent/caregiver in all families and a sample of students from the school.

Opinions on the school as a workplace are sought from all school staff and principals. There are additional questions for teaching staff on their confidence to teach and improve student outcomes. Principals are also asked about their confidence to lead the school and improve student outcomes.

There are four different confidential surveys for

- parents
- students
- staff
- principals

Review Statement

The Bundaberg North State High School Student Code of Conduct will undergo annual minor updates to reflect changing circumstances, data and staff. A review is conducted every four years in line with the scheduled review process for the School Planning, Reviewing and Reporting cycle.

Learning and Behaviour Statement

The first step in facilitating standards of positive behaviour is communicating those standards to all students. This is informed by Bundaberg North State High School's pedagogical framework, our school engagement program, and the Essential Skills for Classroom Management. At Bundaberg North State High School we emphasise the importance of directly teaching students the behaviours we want them to demonstrate in all school-related contexts. Communicating behavioural expectations is a form of universal behaviour support - a strategy directed towards all students, designed to prevent problem behaviour, and providing a framework for responding to unacceptable behaviour.

Our school community has identified the following school values to teach and promote our high standards of expected responsible behaviour:

Respect	Treat others as you would like to be treated, be polite and be proud of your school.
Responsibility	Be accountable for your actions, be trustworthy, be organised and follow instructions.
Safety	Take care of yourself, the people around you and your school environment

Student Wellbeing and Support Network

Bundaberg North State High School uses a set of proactive and supportive strategies to assist all students to exhibit positive and productive behaviours and engage effectively in learning.

Engaging Curriculum and Effective Teaching: Engaging curriculum, inclusive practices and effective teaching are the starting point of our behaviour support strategies. These are achieved through the implementation of the whole-school pedagogical framework and the Curriculum Assessment and Reporting Plan (CARP). Classroom teachers are supported in these endeavours through:

- Bundaberg North State High School's pedagogical framework.
- Participation in curriculum area professional learning communities (PLC) supporting the development of a consistent teaching and learning framework.
- Student Code of Conduct staff induction.
- Ongoing professional development.
- Support provided by the curriculum heads of department, and junior and senior school behaviour support teams consisting of year-level coordinators, junior and senior school heads of department, and deputy principals.
- Open and informed communication.
- Consistent application of an effective Code of Conduct.

Student engagement framework: Utilising the Rebooting Education and Essential Skills for Classroom Management (ESCM) models to actively teach students strategies for self-regulation

RAS Program: A pastoral care program (RAS – Relationships and Self) provides a developmental program which focuses on building positive relationships and behaviours, team building, cooperation and leadership skills.

Case Management for students with a disability: Individual support for students and parents, tailored to their specific needs, and a supervised room (chill-out room) within the student support area in G Block provided to support students to regain self-regulation in a private environment, assisted by support services staff.

Transition Program: Year 6 students from “feeder” schools are engaged in a comprehensive program enabling their seamless transition to high school life and alignment of feeder school behaviour expectations.

Orientation Program: All year 7 students undergo a comprehensive induction program outlining acceptable positive behaviour.

- Year Level Coordinators: Provide well-being, engagement and attendance support by case-managing a year level.
- Year Level HODS: Provide behaviour and academic support for a year level.
- Sector HODS: Provide focussed and intensive behaviour support within the junior (yr.7/8), middle (yr.8/9), or senior (yr.11/12) secondary sectors.
- Support staff: A variety of support staff e.g. school-based youth health nurse, chaplain, school-based police officer, youth support coordinator, community education counsellor and guidance officer provide assistance to students.
- Active student participation: is promoted by offering a broad range of student options in academic, sporting, service and cultural activities. There is regular acknowledgement and recognition of participation.
- Leadership Opportunities: Encouragement of student leadership through activities such as the student council, sport, the peer mediation and ‘Better Buddies’ programs.
- Development of specific policies to address:
 - Use of digital devices by students
 - Procedures for preventing and responding to incidents of bullying
 - Temporary removal of student property
- Positive Reinforcement: Classroom teachers, administration and support staff reinforce positive behaviours through actions such as:
 - Acknowledgement and recording of positive behaviours
 - Appointment of school leaders
 - Acknowledgement of achievement
 - Rewards for positive behaviour and effort through the ‘Reach for the Sky’ awards program
 - Rewards for positive behaviour with school Gotchas, vouchers, and reward days
- Proactive Programs to support students such as peer mediation, ‘Better Buddies’ and the student engagement program
- Flexispace: to provide focused and intensive, proactive engagement support for students with identified needs. The Flexispace combines a case-managed, alternative environment program with a continuation of engagement with mainstream schooling. Each student is monitored from commencement in the program against the Australian Curriculum, social and emotional resilience, wellbeing and attendance.
- Reinforcing expected school behaviour

At Bundaberg North State High School, communication of our key messages about behaviour is backed up through reinforcement, which provides students with feedback for engaging in expected school behaviour. A formal recognition and monitoring system has been developed and is called ‘Reach for the Sky’. This reinforcement system is designed to increase the quantity and quality of positive interactions between students and staff. All staff members are trained to give consistent and appropriate acknowledgement and rewards.

Whole School Approach to Discipline

Students come to school to learn and behaviour support represents an important opportunity for learning how to get along with others. To facilitate this, Bundaberg North State High School is committed to:

Supporting student participation by establishing and implementing inclusive and positive interactions to engage and support all students in classroom activities.

Managing classroom activities by establishing and maintaining orderly and workable routines to create an environment where student time is spent on learning tasks.

Managing challenging behaviour by establishing and negotiating clear expectations with students and addressing discipline issues promptly, fairly and respectfully.

Maintaining student safety and wellbeing within school by implementing school and/or system, curriculum and legislative requirements.

Using ICT safely, responsibly and ethically by incorporating strategies in learning and teaching.

Where students are not able to meet the behaviour expectations of a particular context, Bundaberg North State High School uses a graduated sequence of behaviour redirection, support and intervention.

Consideration of Individual Circumstances

Staff at Bundaberg North State High School take into account students' individual circumstances, such as their behaviour history, disability, mental health and wellbeing, religious and cultural considerations, home environment and care arrangements when teaching expectations, responding to inappropriate behaviour or applying a disciplinary consequence.

In considering the individual circumstances of each student, we recognise that the way we teach, the support we provide and the way we respond to students will differ. This reflects the principle of equity, where every student is given the support they need to be successful. This also means that not everyone will be treated the same, because treating everyone the same is not fair. For example, some students need additional support to interpret or understand an expectation. Others may benefit from more opportunities to practise a required skill or behaviour. For a small number of students, the use of certain disciplinary consequences may be considered inappropriate or ineffective due to complex trauma or family circumstances. These are all matters that our teachers and principal consider with each individual student in both the instruction of behaviour and the response to behaviour. The need to consider individual circumstances means that this Student Code of Conduct does not include mandatory consequences for particular behaviours.

Our teachers and school leaders are also obliged by law to respect and protect the privacy of individual students, so while we understand the interest of other students, staff and parents to know what punishment another student might have received, we will not disclose or discuss this information with anyone but the student's family. This applies even if the behavioural incident, such as bullying, involves your child. You can be assured that school staff take all matters, such as bullying, very seriously and will address them appropriately. We expect that parents and students will respect the privacy of other students and families.

If you have concerns about the behaviour of another student at the school, or the way our staff have responded to their behaviour, please make an appointment with the principal to discuss the matter.

Differentiated and Explicit Teaching (Tier 1)

There are three main layers to differentiation, as illustrated in the diagram below. This model is the same used for academic and pedagogical differentiation.

Teachers at Bundaberg North State High School vary what students are taught, how they are taught and how students can demonstrate what they know as part of a differentiated approach to behaviour. These decisions about differentiation are made in response to data and day-to-day monitoring that indicates the behavioural learning needs of students. This enables our teachers to purposefully plan a variety of ways to engage students; assist them to achieve the expected learning; and to demonstrate their learning.

When a student exhibits low-level and infrequent problem behaviour, the first response of school staff members is to employ positive, supportive behaviour strategies to prompt students towards preferred behaviours.

Our preferred way of re-directing low-level problem behaviour is to ask them to think of how they might be able to act more safely, more respectfully or more responsibly. This encourages students to reflect on their own behaviour, evaluate it against expected school behaviour, and plan how their behaviour could be modified so as to align with the expectations of our school community.

Specific differentiated behaviour support strategies include:

- Cross classing (Appendix 2)
- Monitoring cards/booklets
- Re-negotiations

Focused Teaching (Tier 2)

Each year a small number of students at Bundaberg North State High School are identified through our data as needing targeted behavioural support, even after being provided with differentiated and explicit teaching. These students may have difficulty meeting behavioural expectations in a particular context or during a particular stage of personal development, and focused teaching is provided to help them achieve success.

In most cases the problem behaviours of these students may not be immediately regarded as severe, but the frequency of their behaviours may put the student's learning and social success at risk if not addressed in a timely manner.

Focused teaching involves revisiting key behavioural concepts and/or skills and using explicit and structured teaching strategies in particular aspects of a behaviour skill. Focused teaching provides students with more opportunities to practise skills and multiple opportunities to achieve the intended learning and expected behaviour.

In order to best target the responses students may require internal case management, in order for support staff to work collaboratively with class teachers at Bundaberg North State High School to provide a targeted teaching approach.

Student progress is monitored by the case managers to identify those who:

- no longer require the additional support
- require ongoing focussed teaching
- require intensive teaching.

Students identified as requiring targeted support will be referred to the relevant Year Level HOD. Students who meet criteria are case-managed including referral to support staff or behaviour support consultants. Their progress and programs are reviewed regularly to ensure students are on track to achieve their behaviour improvement goals.

Alternative programs: A number of alternative programs may be offered to individuals or groups of students who have displayed at-risk behaviours. These programs are developed in response to student needs and include in-school and community-based programs, e.g. Headspace, Rock and Water, Betterman etc.

The Sector team: The Sector team works with other staff members to develop appropriate behaviour support strategies, monitor the impact of support for individual students through continuous data collection, make adjustments as required for the student, and work with the student services team, and the Year Level support teams to achieve continuity and consistency.

Flexispace: to provide on-campus focused and intensive, proactive engagement support for students with identified needs. The Flexispace combines a case-managed, alternative environment program with a continuation of engagement with mainstream schooling. Each student is monitored from commencement in the program against the Australian Curriculum, social and emotional resilience, wellbeing and attendance.

Intensive Teaching (Tier 3)

Bundaberg North State High School is committed to educating all students, including those with the highest behavioural support needs. We recognise that students with highly complex and challenging behaviours need comprehensive systems of support.

Some students may require intensive teaching for a short period, for particular behaviour skills. Other students may require intensive teaching for a more prolonged period. Decisions about the approach will be made based on data collected from their teacher or teachers, and following consultation with the student's family.

Bundaberg North SHS partners with multiple external supports including regional office supports and external agencies in order to provide the support required this is often referred to as complex case management.

The Year Level teams

The year teams work with other staff members to develop appropriate behaviour support strategies, monitor the impact of support for individual students through continuous data collection, make adjustments as required for the student, and work with the student services team to achieve continuity and consistency.

The Guidance Officer for Student Engagement and Wellbeing (GOSEW)

supports students to re-engage with school when there are low levels of attendance. The GOSEW assists in connecting students with support at school and external resources.

Flexispace: to provide on-campus focused and intensive, proactive engagement support for students with identified needs. The Flexispace combines a case-managed, alternative environment program with a continuation of engagement with mainstream schooling. Each student is monitored from commencement in the program against the Australian Curriculum, social and emotional resilience, wellbeing and attendance.

Delegations

Under the Education (General Provisions) Act 2006, state school principals are responsible for “controlling and regulating student discipline in the school”.

Principals are afforded a number of non-delegable powers to assist them to meet this obligation, including the authority to suspend, exclude or cancel the enrolment of a student at the school. These decision-making responsibilities cannot be delegated to other staff in the school, such as deputy principals.

The details of these responsibilities are outlined in the legislative instruments of delegation and instruments of authorisation provided below:

Persons who are from time to time the holders of the position of Deputy Principal at this school, are authorised to tell a student on the principal's behalf of their decision to suspend the student under section 281 of the EGPA.

A Deputy Principal who tells a student of the principal's decision to suspend that student, acts in the principal's name.

The effect of this authorisation is that a suspension of a student under section 281 of the EGPA will start when a Deputy Principal tells the student about the principal's decision, as per section 283(2) of the EGPA.

Disciplinary Consequences

Bundaberg North State High School makes systematic efforts to prevent problem student behaviour by teaching and reinforcing expected behaviours on an ongoing basis. Our school seeks to ensure that responses to unacceptable behaviour are consistent and proportionate to the nature of the behaviour. The behaviour module in One School is used to record all minor and major problem behaviours and the response to that behaviour.

When responding to problem behaviour the staff member first determines if the problem behaviour is major or minor, with the following agreed understanding:

- Minor problem behaviour is handled by staff members at the time it happens, and may or may not be referred to the appropriate Year Level HOD.
- Persistent Minor problem behaviour is referred to the appropriate Year Level HOD, Sector HOD and Sector Deputy Principal.
- Major problem behaviour is referred directly to the appropriate Year Level HOD, Sector HOD and Sector Deputy Principal.

Minor behaviours are those that:

- do not meet the school expectations or procedures
- are isolated or infrequent
- do not cause risk of harm to self or others or cause you to suspect that a student may be harmed
- do not significantly disrupt the teaching and learning in a learning environment
- have little or no impact on teacher-student and student-student relationships
- do not violate the rights of others in any other serious way
- are not part of a pattern of problem behaviours
- do not require involvement of specialist support staff or administration.

Persistent Minor behaviours are those that:

- are minor behaviours that form part of an ongoing pattern of problem behaviour
- do not require involvement of specialist support staff or administration.

Major behaviours are those that:

- are significant breach of school expectations
- cause significant and/or extended disruption to teaching and learning
- have major and long-lasting impacts on teacher-student and student-student relationships
- are repeated or form part of an ongoing pattern of problem behaviour
- significantly violate the rights of others
- put others / self at risk of harm
- require the involvement of school administration

Major behaviours result in an immediate referral to year level support teams because of their seriousness. When major problem behaviour occurs, staff members calmly state the major problem behaviour and remind the student of expected school behaviour and then direct the student to the school office or student room. The staff member then completes a OneSchool behaviour entry and referral as soon as it is possible to do so.

There are no mandated or automatic consequences for particular breaches of the Student Code of Conduct. While responses to major behaviours are more likely to include focused and intensive strategies, the application of consequences is determined by students' individual circumstances, with the aim of teaching students appropriate ways to meet their needs. School responses to minor and major problem behaviours may include:

Whole-school differentiated and explicit:

- Incentives and goals
- Modelling of appropriate behaviour and language
- Positive feedback to reinforce expected behaviours
- Pre-correction
- Verbal, non-verbal and visual cues
- Rule reminders
- Whole-school practising of routines
- Corrective feedback
- Proximity control
- Selective attending
- Re-direction
- Explicit behavioural instructions
- Individual discussion with student about expected behaviour
- Revised seating plan and relocation of student/s
- Removal to cross-class see Appendix 2 for details
- Alternate lunchtime activities
- Loss of privilege
- Restitution
- Catch-up sessions
- Warning regarding future consequence for repeated offence
- Parent contact.

Focused:

- Parent contact
- Referral to junior or senior school behaviour team

- Individual behaviour support plan
- Suspension from school
- Referral to: guidance officer, school-based youth health nurse, chaplain, community education counsellor, youth support coordinator, school-based police officer, and/or other external programs and agencies

Intensive:

- Individual support plan
- Complex case management and review
- Stakeholder meeting with parents and external agencies, including regional specialists
- Temporary removal of student property
- Short term suspension (up to 10 school days)
- Long term suspension (up to 20 school days)
- Charge related suspension (a student who has been charged with a serious criminal offence is suspended from school until the charge has been dealt with by the relevant justice authorities)

- Suspension pending exclusion (student is suspended from school pending a decision by the Director-General or delegate (principal) about their exclusion from school)
- Exclusion (student is excluded from a particular state school site, a group of state schools or all state schools in Queensland for a defined period of time or permanently)
- Cancellation of enrolment for students older than compulsory school age who refuse to participate in the educational program provided at the school.

School Disciplinary Absences

A School Disciplinary Absence (SDA) is an enforced period of absence from attending a Queensland state school, applied by the Principal as a consequence to address poor student behaviour. There are four types of SDA:

- Short suspension (1 to 10 school days)
- Long suspension (11 to 20 school days)
- Charge-related suspension
- Exclusion (period of not more than one year or permanently).

Parents and students may appeal a long suspension, charge-related suspension or exclusion decision. A review will be conducted by the Director-General or their delegate, and a decision made within 40 school days to confirm, amend/vary or set aside the original SDA decision by the Principal.

The appeal process is a thorough review of all documentation associated with the SDA decision and provides an opportunity for both the school and the family to present their case in the matter. Time is afforded for collection, dissemination and response to the materials by both the school and the family. It is important that the purpose of the appeal is understood so that expectations are clear, and appropriate supports are in place to ensure students can continue to access their education while completing their SDA.

Re-entry following suspension

Students who are suspended from Bundaberg North State High School may be invited to attend a re-entry meeting on or before the day of their scheduled return to school. The aim of the re-entry meeting is for school staff to re-establish expectations, set the student up for future success and implement supportive strategies, and strengthen home-school communication.

It is not mandatory for the student or their parents to attend a re-entry meeting. It may be offered as a support for the student to assist in their successful re-engagement in school following suspension.

Arrangements

The invitation to attend the re-entry meeting will be communicated via telephone and/or email.

A record of the meeting is saved in OneSchool, under the Contact tab, including any notes or discussions occurring during the meeting.

Reasonable adjustments

In planning the re-entry meeting, school staff will consider reasonable adjustments needed to support the attendance and engagement of the student. This includes selecting an appropriate and accessible meeting space, organising translation or interpretation services or supports (e.g. AUSLAN), provision of written and/or pictorial information and other relevant accommodations. The inclusion of support staff, such as guidance officers, case managers or community education counsellors, may also offer important advice to ensure a successful outcome to the re-entry meeting.

Temporary removal of student property

Under certain circumstances, the removal of property in a student's possession may be necessary to promote the caring, safe and supportive learning environment of the school, to maintain and foster mutual respect between all state school staff, students and visitors.

As per the Education (General Provisions) Regulation 2017, the principal or state school staff member may remove from a student at the school any property in the student's possession if the principal or staff member is satisfied the removal is necessary—

- a) to promote the caring, safe and supportive learning environment of the school; or
- b) to maintain and foster mutual respect between staff members and students at the school; or
- c) to encourage all students attending the school to take responsibility for their own behaviour and the consequences of their actions; or
- d) to provide for the effective administration of matters relating to students of the school.

The Principal or state school staff determine when the temporarily removed student property can be returned, unless the property has been handed to the Queensland Police Service.

The following items are prohibited at Bundaberg North State High School and will be removed if found in a student's possession:

- illegal items or weapons
- imitation guns or weapons
- potentially dangerous items (e.g. box cutters, loose blades, rope)
- drugs (including tobacco and alcohol)
- aerosol deodorants or cans (including spray paint)
- flammable gases, solids or liquids, explosives and incendiaries (e.g. lighters, fireworks, party poppers)
- poisons (e.g. weed killer, insecticides)
- inappropriate or offensive material (e.g. racist material, pornography, extremist propaganda, material that glorifies violence).

Note 1: No knives or exposed blades of any type are allowed at school, including tools such as chisels, craft knives, butter knives, or blades removed from pencil sharpeners. Knives needed for school activities will be provided by the school, and the use of them will be supervised by school staff.

Note 2: The administration of medications to students by school staff is only considered when a prescribing health practitioner has determined that it is necessary, or when there is no other alternative in relation to the treatment of a specific health need. Schools require medical authorisation to administer any medication to students (including over-the-counter medications such as paracetamol or alternative medicines), and all medication must be provided in an original container with administration directions attached.

Roles and Responsibilities

State school staff at Bundaberg North State High School:

- do not require consent to search school property such as lockers, desks or laptops that are supplied to the student through the school;

- will seize a student's property or bag where there is suspicion that student property is illegal to possess, likely to threaten the safety or wellbeing of students or staff, or has been used to commit a crime, prior to seeking parent or student consent to search the property, or retaining the property and arranging handover to police;
- will search a student's property without consent in emergency circumstances (e.g. to access an EpiPen for an anaphylactic emergency);
- will seek parent or student consent to examine or deal with seized property, such as accessing material stored on mobile phones;
- will contact police if it is determined that a search of the person of a student is necessary;
- will determine when the temporarily removed student property can be returned, unless the property has been handed to the Queensland Police Service.

Students and parents of students at Bundaberg North State High School:

- Ensure they/their children do not bring property onto school grounds or other settings used by the school that:
 - is prohibited according to the Bundaberg North State High School's Student Code of Conduct
 - is illegal
 - puts the safety or wellbeing of others at risk
 - does not preserve a caring, safe, supportive or productive learning environment
 - does not maintain and foster mutual respect
- Collect their/their child's property as soon as they have been notified the property is available for collection, or give consent for the property to be destroyed or disposed of by the school.

Use of digital devices by students

Digital literacy refers to the skills needed to live, learn and work in a society where communication and access to information is dominated by digital technologies.. However, the benefits brought about through these diverse technologies can be easily overshadowed by deliberate misuse which harms others or disrupts learning.

In consultation with the broader school community, Bundaberg North State High School has determined that explicit teaching of responsible use of digital devices is a critical component of digital literacy. The knowledge and confidence to navigate and use these technologies safely while developing digital literacy is a responsibility shared between parents, school staff and students.

Bring-your-own device responsibilities

Students are responsible for:

- Ensuring they have a working device (laptop or tablet) that meets the Bring Your Own Device minimum specifications
- Bringing their BYO device to all classes
- Using their BYO device for:
 - assigned class work and assignments set by teachers
 - developing appropriate literacy, communication and information skills
 - authoring text, artwork, audio and visual material for publication on the intranet or internet for educational purposes as supervised and approved by the school
 - conducting general research for school activities and projects
 - communicating or collaborating with other students, teachers, parents or experts in relation to school work
 - accessing online references such as dictionaries, encyclopaedias, etc.
 - researching and learning through the department's eLearning environment
- Being courteous, considerate and respectful of others when using BYO devices
- Follow teacher directions regarding when and where BYO devices should be used

Mobile phones and electronic devices

Mobile phones and other electronic devices, other than the BYO device must be switched off and 'away for the day' during school hours. Students will be able to use their phone outside of school hours to support safe travel, and to make contact with parents, friends and part-time employers.

Students can make urgent phone calls from the school office and the office will locate students and deliver messages from parents should the need arise. Staff will follow appropriate school processes and make contact with parents and carers if a student comes unwell or experiences an issue during the day.

If students choose to bring mobile phones and other devices to school they do so at their own risk. The school will not accept responsibility for loss or damage to phones or other devices.

At Bundaberg North State High School, students will be expected to store their mobile phones and wearable devices in lockable pouches during school hours. Students will be responsible for storing their mobile phones and wearable devices in the lockable pouches. This pouch will be kept with the student during the day. If a student chooses not to meet this requirement, they will be required to leave the phone in the office. The phone will be returned to the student after school. On the third occasion that a student does not comply with this policy, the phone or device will be kept in the office and parents contacted to discuss the collection/return of the phone. Repeated non-compliance will be dealt with through the Bundaberg North State High School Student Code of Conduct.

It is unacceptable for students at Bundaberg North State High School to:

- use a mobile phone or other devices in an unlawful manner
- use a mobile phone in technology-free designated spaces or times
- download, distribute or publish offensive messages or pictures
- use obscene, inflammatory, racist, discriminatory or derogatory language
- use language and/or threats of violence that may amount to bullying and/or harassment
- insult, harass or attack others or use obscene or abusive language
- deliberately waste printing and internet resources
- damage computers, printers or network equipment
- commit plagiarism or violate copyright laws
- ignore teacher directions for the use of social media, online email and internet chat
- send chain letters or spam email (junk mail)
- knowingly download viruses or any other programs capable of breaching the department's network security
- use in-phone cameras anywhere a normal camera would be considered inappropriate, such as in change rooms or toilets
- invade someone's privacy by recording personal conversations or daily activities and/or the further distribution (e.g. forwarding, texting, uploading, Bluetooth use etc.) of such material
- photograph, film or otherwise record staff, students or visitors without the express permission of the principal
- use a mobile phone (including those with Bluetooth functionality) to cheat during exams or assessments
- take into or use mobile devices at exams or during class assessment unless expressly permitted by school staff.

Preventing and responding to bullying

The national definition of bullying for Australian schools is:

- Bullying is the ongoing and deliberate misuse of power in relationships through repeated verbal, physical and/or social behaviour that intends to cause physical, social and/or psychological harm.
- It can involve an individual or a group misusing their power, or perceived power, over one or more persons who feel unable to stop it from happening.
- Bullying can happen in person or online, via various digital platforms and devices and it can be obvious (overt) or hidden (covert).
- Bullying behaviour is repeated, or has the potential to be repeated, over time (for example, through sharing of digital records).
- Bullying of any form or for any reason can have immediate, medium and long-term effects on those involved, including bystanders.
- Single incidents and conflict or fights between equals, whether in person or online, are not defined as bullying.

Behaviours that do not constitute bullying include:

- mutual arguments and disagreements (where there is no power imbalance)
- not liking someone or a single act of social rejection
- one-off acts of meanness or spite
- isolated incidents of aggression, intimidation or violence.

Such occurrences may still be serious and require intervention or management, however they do not (as single incidents) meet the threshold of a behaviour that can be described as bullying.

Bundaberg North State High School has a Better Buddies Anti-bullying Program, which promotes positive student relationships and educates students on the most effective strategies to counter bullying. Student leaders provide an authentic student voice in the program, and help their fellow students connect with the program's anti-bullying message.

Bullying response flowchart for teachers

Please note these timelines may be adjusted depending on the unique circumstances and risk associated with each situation. This is at the professional judgment of the staff involved. Timeframes should be clearly discussed and agreed with student and family.

Key contacts for students and parents to report bullying:

Classroom teacher/RAS teacher

Year Level Coordinator

Year Level Head of Department

At the first report of bullying:
Listen

- Let them share their experience and feelings without interruption
- If you hold immediate concerns for the student's safety, let the student know how you will address these. In this circumstance, 'immediate' is where the staff member believes the student is likely to experience harm (from others or self) within the next 24 hours

Day one:
Document

- Ask the student for examples they have of the alleged bullying (e.g. hand written notes or screenshots)
- Check back with the student to ensure you have the facts correct
- Enter a record in OneSchool
- Notify parent/s that the issue of concern is being investigated

Day two-three:
Collect

- Gather additional information from other students, staff or family
- Review any previous reports or records for students involved
- Make sure you can answer who, what, where, when and how
- Clarify information with student and check on their wellbeing

Day four:
Discuss

- Evaluate the information to determine if bullying has occurred or if another disciplinary matter is at issue
- Meet with the student to discuss next steps and outcomes
- Provide the student and parent with information about student support services
- Agree to a plan of action and timeline for the student, parent and yourself

Day five:
Implement

- Document the plan of action in a OneSchool support provision
- Complete all actions agreed with student and parent within agreed timeframes
- Monitor the student and check in regularly on their wellbeing
- Seek assistance from student support services if needed

Within two weeks:
Review

- Meet with the student to review the situation
- Discuss what has changed, improved or worsened
- Explore other options for strengthening student wellbeing or safety
- Report back to parent
- Record outcomes in OneSchool support provision

Ongoing
Follow up

- Continue to check in with student on a regular basis until concerns have been mitigated
- Record notes of follow-up meetings in OneSchool
- Refer matter to guidance officer and/or deputy principal within 48 hours if problems escalate

Cyberbullying

Cyberbullying is treated at Bundaberg North State High School with the same level of seriousness as in-person bullying. The major difference with cyberbullying however, is that unlike in-person bullying, cyberbullying follows students into their community, their homes and their bedrooms, giving them no opportunity to escape the harassment or abuse during the evening, weekends or holidays.

In the first instance, students or parents who wish to make a report about cyberbullying should seek to contact the relevant year-level coordinator.

It is important for students, parents and staff to know that state school principals have the authority to take disciplinary action to address student behaviours that occur outside of school hours or school grounds. This includes cyberbullying. Parents and students who have concerns about cyberbullying incidents occurring during school holidays should immediately seek assistance through the Office of the e-Safety Commissioner or the Queensland Police Service.

Students enrolled at Bundaberg North State High School may face in-school disciplinary action, such as detention or removal of privileges, or more serious consequences such as suspension or exclusion from school for engaging in behaviour that adversely affects, or is likely to adversely affect, other students or the good order and management of the school. This includes behaviour such as cyberbullying which occurs outside of school hours or settings, for example on the weekend or during school holidays. It also applies to inappropriate online behaviour of enrolled students that is directed towards other community members or students from other school sites.

Parents or other stakeholders who engage in inappropriate online behaviour towards students, staff or other parents may be referred to the Office of the e-Safety Commissioner and/or the Queensland Police Service. State school staff will be referred for investigation to the Integrity and Employee Relations team in the Department of Education. Any questions or concerns about the school process for managing or responding to cyberbullying should be directed to the appropriate deputy principal.

How to manage online incidents that impact your school

Student protection

If at any point the principal forms a reasonable suspicion that a student has been harmed or is at risk of harm, they have a responsibility to respond in accordance with the Student protection procedure.

Explicit images

If the investigation involves naked or explicit images of children, staff should not save, copy, forward or otherwise deal with the content, as per the Temporary removal of student property by school staff procedure. This includes onto OneSchool records. Refer to the investigative process outlined in 'Responding to incidents involving naked or explicit images of children' from the Online Incident management guidelines.

Help

Refer to the Online incident management guidelines for more details, or if assistance is required, contact the Cybersafety and Reputation Management (CSRM) team on 3034 5035 or Cybersafety.ReputationManagement@qed.qld.gov.au.

Does the online behaviour/incident negatively impact the good order and management of the school?

Appropriate use of social media

The internet, mobile phones and social media provide opportunities for students to network and socialise online. While these technologies provide positive platforms for sharing ideas, they also have the potential to cause pain and suffering to individuals, groups or even whole communities.

It's important to remember that sometimes negative comments posted about the school community have a greater impact than expected. Reputations of students, teachers, schools, principals and even parents can be permanently damaged — and in some cases, serious instances of inappropriate online behaviour are dealt with by police and the court system.

Being aware of a few simple strategies can help keep the use of social media positive and constructive:

- Before you post something online, ask yourself if the community or individual really need to know. Is it relevant, positive and helpful?
- Remember that what you post online is a direct reflection of who you are. People will potentially form lasting opinions of you based on what you post online.
- Be a good role model. If things get heated online, consider logging out and taking a few moments to relax and think. Hasty, emotive responses could inflame situations unnecessarily.
- Be mindful when commenting, try to keep information general and avoid posting anything that could identify individuals.
- A few years ago parents may have discussed concerns or issues with their friends at the school gate. Today with the use of social media, online discussions between you and your close friends can very quickly be shared with a much wider audience, potentially far larger than intended.
- Taking a few moments to think about the content you are about to post could save upset, embarrassment, and possible legal action.
- Parents have a role in supervising and regulating your child's online activities at home and its impact on the reputation and privacy of others. Parents are their child's first teachers — so they will learn online behaviours from you.

Is it appropriate to comment or post about schools, staff or students?

Parental and community feedback is important for schools and the department. If parents or students have a compliment, complaint or enquiry about an issue at school, they are asked to speak directly to the school about the matter, rather than discussing it in a public forum.

While many schools use social media to update parents of school notices, the department prefers that parents and students contact schools directly with a compliment, complaint or enquiry due to privacy considerations.

If parents or students have raised an issue with the school or know that another person has, they are asked to refrain from discussing those details on social media, particularly the names of anyone involved.

All contributors should keep comments calm and polite, as with telephone or email communication. If parents encounter negative or derogatory content online which involves the school, hinders a child's learning, and/or affects the school community at large, they are asked to contact the school principal.

Possible civil or criminal ramifications of online commentary

A serious instance of inappropriate online behaviour may constitute a criminal offence and become a police matter. For example, online content may substantiate the offence of 'using a carriage service to menace, harass or cause offence' (Criminal Code Act 1995 (Cth) s. 474.17). School staff may contact their union or obtain personal legal advice if they feel that online content seriously impacts their reputation. Defamatory online content may give rise to litigation under the Defamation Act 2005 (Qld).

Privacy

If parents upload photos of their children, or students upload photos of themselves, they should not upload images where other students are identifiable in the background. Some parents are not willing to share their child's image on social media. Parents should consider that other parents may not want their child's name attached to images online.

Problem content

Taking the following steps may help resolve the issue in a constructive way:

- refrain from responding
- take a screen capture or print a copy of the concerning online content
- if you consider problem content to be explicit, pornographic or exploitative of minors, you should keep a record of the URL of the page containing that content but NOT print or share it. The URL can be provided to the school principal, or police, as needed for escalation of serious concerns
- block the offending user
- report the content to the social media provider.

Restrictive Practices

School staff at Bundaberg North State High School need to respond to student behaviour that presents a risk of physical harm to the student themselves or others. It is anticipated that most instances of risky behaviour can be de-escalated and resolved quickly. On some rarer occasions, a student's behaviour may continue to escalate and staff need to engage immediately with positive and proactive strategies aimed at supporting the student to manage their emotional arousal and behaviour.

In some very rare situations, where there is immediate risk of physical harm to the student or other people, and when all other alternative strategies have failed to reduce the risk, it may be necessary for staff to use restrictive practices.

The use of restrictive practices will always be as a last resort, when there is no other available option for reducing immediate risk to the student, staff or other people. Restrictive practices are not used for punishment or as a disciplinary measure.

The department's Restrictive practices procedure is written with consideration for the protection of everyone's human rights, health, safety and welfare. There are six fundamental principles:

1. Regard to the human rights of those students
2. Safeguards students, staff and others from harm
3. Ensures transparency and accountability
4. Places importance on communication and consultation with parents and carers
5. Maximises the opportunity for positive outcomes, and
6. Aims to reduce or eliminate the use of restrictive practices.

Very rarely, restrictive practices will be planned and staff will employ, when necessary, pre-arranged strategies and methods (of physical restraint/ mechanical restraint/ clinical holding) which are based upon behaviour risk assessment or clinical health need and are recorded in advance. The use of planned strategies will only be where there is foreseeable immediate risk consistent with the Restrictive practices procedure.

Seclusion will not be used as a planned response and will only be used in serious circumstances for managing an unforeseeable situation in an emergency. It will be used for the shortest time possible and in a safe area that presents no additional foreseeable risk to the student. In such emergencies, a staff member will observe the student at all times and seclusion will cease as soon as possible.

Examples of physical restraint that might be "reasonable" in the circumstances would be:

- a) using manual guidance to prevent a student running onto a busy road
- b) holding a student to prevent them physically attacking someone, or
- c) holding a student's hand to prevent repetitive, serious self-injurious behaviour.

Following the use of any restrictive practice, a focused review will help staff to understand how they responded to the risk in any incident that involved the use of a restrictive practice. Staff will consider whether there are other options for managing a similar situation in the future. This strategy works well for reducing the use of restrictive practices.

All incidents of restrictive practices will be recorded and reported in line with departmental procedures.

This procedure does not prohibit the provision of emergency first aid or care as detailed on a student's healthcare plan.

Critical Incidents

A critical incident is defined as an occurrence that is sudden, urgent, and usually unexpected, or an occasion requiring immediate action (e.g. in the community, on the road). The aim in these situations is to bring the behaviour of the student under rapid and safe control. It is not a time to attempt to punish or discipline the student; it is a crisis management period only.

Staff should follow the documented plan for any student involved in regular critical incidents, which should be saved and available for staff to review in OneSchool.

For unexpected critical incidents, staff should use basic defusing techniques:

1. Avoid escalating the problem behaviour: avoid shouting, cornering the student, moving into the student's space, touching or grabbing the student, sudden responses, sarcasm, becoming defensive, communicating anger and frustration through body language.
2. Maintain calmness, respect and detachment: model the behaviour you want students to adopt, stay calm and controlled, use a serious measured tone, choose your language carefully, avoid humiliating the student, be matter-of-fact, and avoid responding emotionally.
3. Approach the student in a non-threatening manner: move slowly and deliberately toward the problem situation, speak privately to the student/s where possible, speak calmly and respectfully, minimise body language, keep a reasonable distance, establish eye level position, be brief, stay with the agenda, acknowledge cooperation, withdraw if the situation escalates.
4. Follow through: if the student starts displaying the appropriate behaviour, briefly acknowledge their choice and re-direct other students' attention towards their usual work/activity. If the student continues with the problem behaviour, then remind them of the expected school behaviour and identify consequences of continued unacceptable behaviour.
5. Debrief: At an appropriate time when there is low risk of re-escalation, help the student to identify the sequence of events that led to the unacceptable behaviour, pinpoint decision moments during the sequence of events, evaluate decisions made, and identify acceptable decision options for future situations.

Appendix 1 - Detentions

A detention is a consequence that may be used to address inappropriate student behaviour. Detentions can be applied during the time a student falls under the school's duty of care, but will usually occur during morning tea and lunch recess. Detentions may be issued by the principal or other member of the school leadership team, or a classroom or otherwise supervising teacher. Detentions can be applied for the duration of an entire recess, in which case the student is afforded an opportunity to access food, water, and bathrooms, to ensure their personal needs are met. There are two types of detention applied:

Classroom detentions to address problem behaviours in the learning environment, including disruption and refusal to engage with teaching and learning. These detentions will be issued by classroom teachers and heads of department.

Withdrawals from classrooms, playgrounds, and waiting areas are detentions which address problem behaviours in other school environments, persistent problem behaviours across multiple contexts, or where students are unable to complete classroom detentions for any reason. These detentions will be issued by Year Level Coordinators, teachers performing playground duties, Year Level Heads of Department and school leaders.

Appendix 2 – Cross-classing

What is cross-classing?

Cross-classing is a strategy designed to:

- Minimise interference with the learning experiences of a class
- Temporarily remove a student who is choosing not to meet the classroom expectations (students cannot be cross classed for more than one lesson/part lesson at a time).
- Allow staff and students “time out” to reflect on classroom behaviours which may be having a negative impact on the classroom

The cross classing process should be seen as a strategy to work towards the restoration of a productive working relationship between the teacher and student, where the student is supported to make more appropriate behaviour choices during the lesson or chosen classroom environment.

When should cross-classing be used?

Cross-classing should be used in the following situations:

- When all essential skills and alternate behaviour management strategies have been utilised by the teacher
- When a student is repeatedly interfering with or disrupting the learning of other students with their behaviour choices
- When students are interfering with or disrupting the “teaching” practices of the teacher
- When a student has utilised their ‘warnings’ or ‘chances’ process within their individual classroom environment expectations
- When a student’s actions or use of specialist equipment result in a significant safety breach

When should cross-classing NOT be used?

Cross-classing should not be used in the following situations:

- Not complying with the uniform expectations linked with WHS
- Not completing an ‘assessment task’ by the due date
- Not complying with the electronic equipment policy
- Not completing class work

Why is Cross-classing an option?

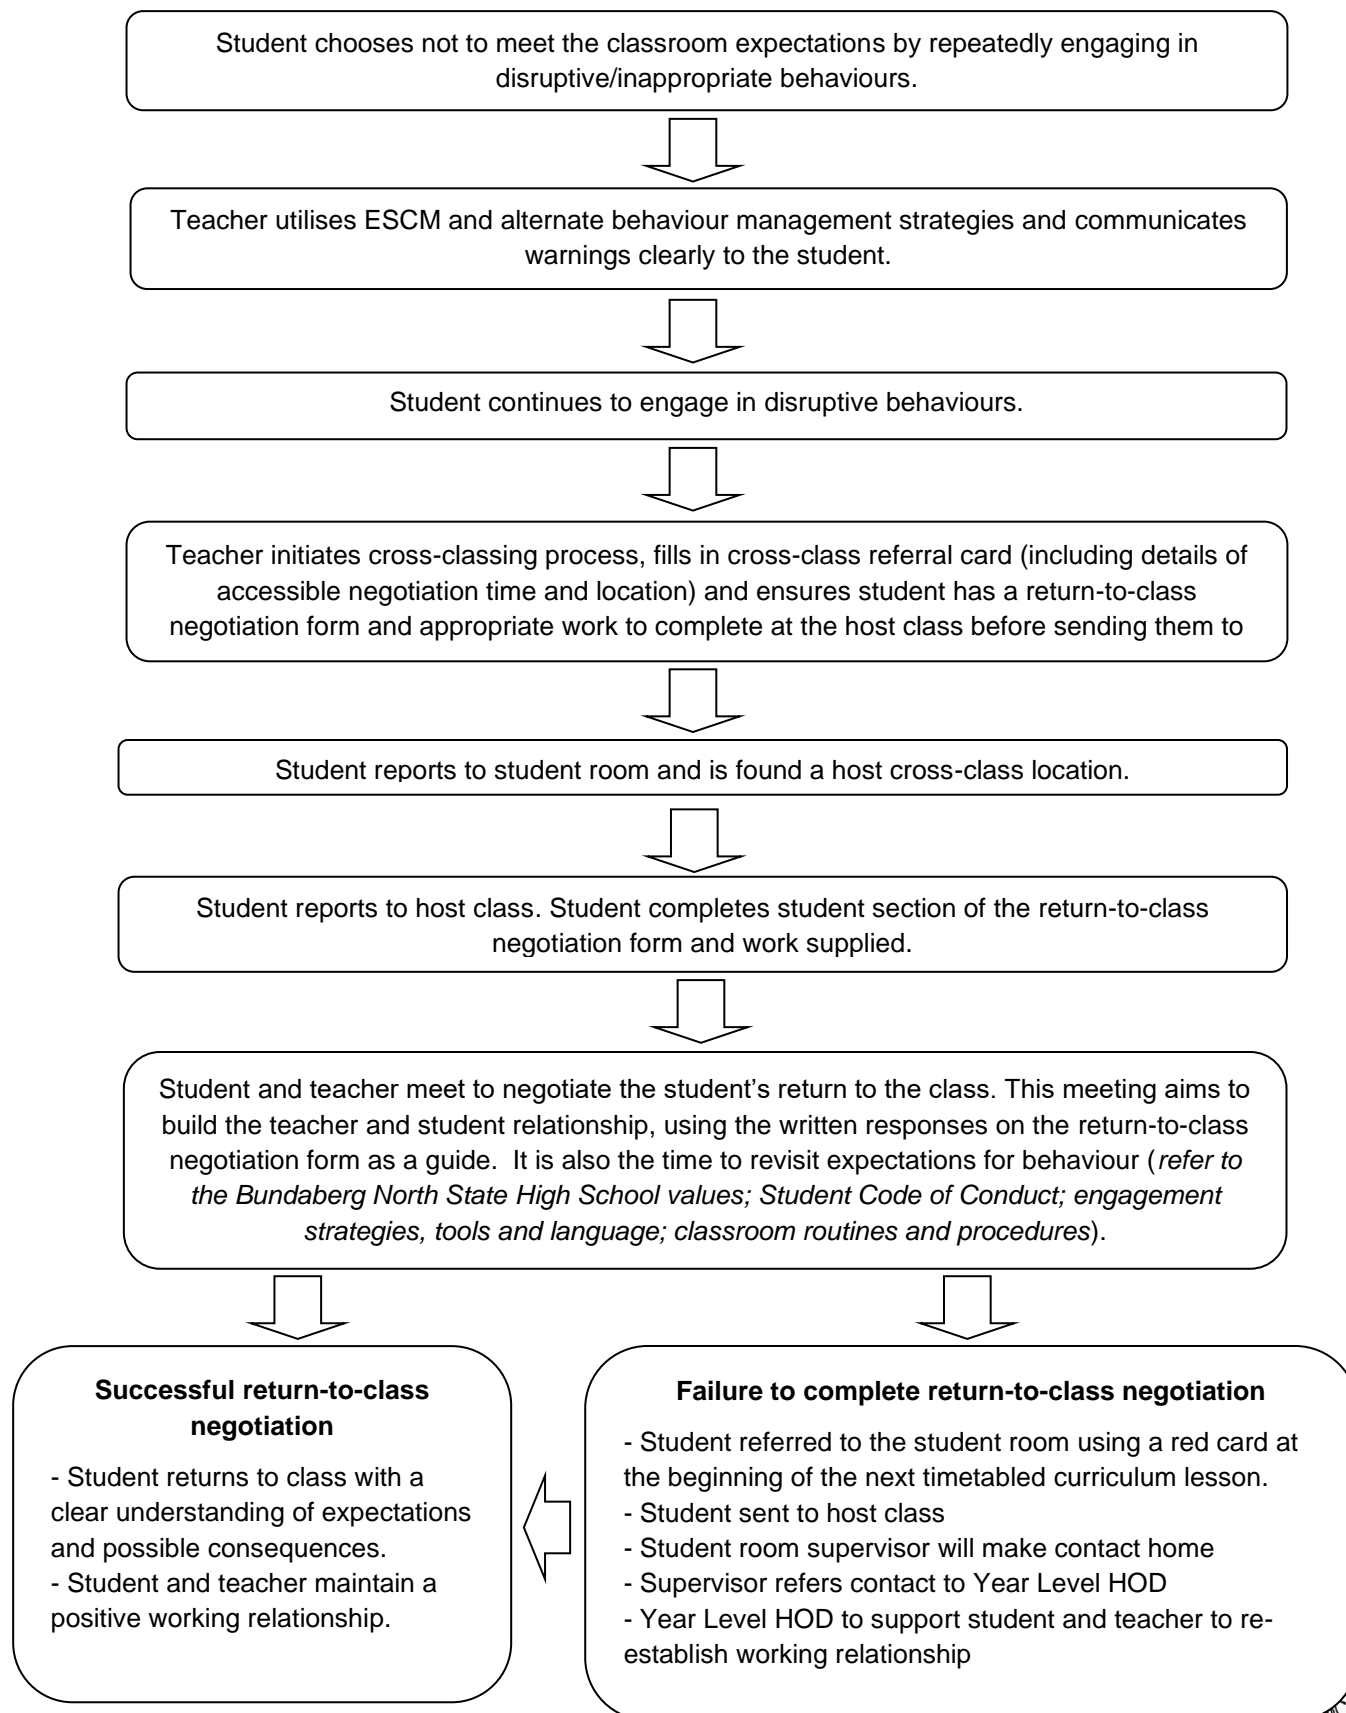

Cross-classing is an option for teachers and students:

- To ensure the learning environment for ‘on task’ students is positive and free from disruption
- To allow students to ‘own’ their behaviour choices and be accountable for those behaviour choices
- To enable a student to reflect on their behaviour choices
- To defuse/de-escalate a given situation
- To allow the teacher to cater for the varied needs in the classroom without the continued disruptive behaviours being present
- To ensure that all students have the right to a safe learning environment
- To ensure that poor student behaviour can be dealt with in a calm and controlled manner at a later date when both parties have had time to reflect on the incident/s.

The underlying principle of cross-classing is to support students to meet school expectations while maintaining positive relationships with their teachers. The overall goal of the process is to restore the relationship between student and teacher and return the student to class as soon as possible.

Cross-Classing Procedure

Teachers establish clear routines and procedures aligned with Bundaberg North State High School's Pedagogical Framework and Student Code of Conduct. Teachers consistently communicate and enforce these expectations using Essential Skills for Classroom Management (ESCM).

What happens after a cross-classing?

After a student has been cross-classed, necessary follow up must occur:

BY the TEACHER

- Recording the incident and referring it to the Year Level HOD
- Contact the parent/guardian of the student
NOTE: A phone conversation is the preferred method of contact. If a parent is uncontactable via phone, staff will leave a voicemail or send an email requesting contact to discuss the student's behaviour in class.
- Participate in the return-to-class negotiation meeting with the student. This meeting aims to build the teacher and student relationship.
- The teacher may assign a detention relating to behaviours prior to the class-classing or to complete curriculum work missed.

BY the STUDENT

- Make their way to the student room with the paperwork and work assigned by their teacher.
- Make their way to cross-class assigned by the student room.
- Complete the return-to-class negotiation form and any curriculum work given to them by their teacher.
- Attend the return-to-class negotiation meeting at the time and place indicated on the cross-class referral form. If you are absent from the negotiated time you must see your teacher when you return to school.
- Take the completed return-to-class negotiation form to the meeting
- Participate in the return-to-class negotiation meeting

On completion of the meeting, both the teacher and the student are ready to commence the next lesson with agreed/renewed expectations and relationships

Failure to complete the return-to-class negotiation meeting

If a student fails to complete a return-to-class negotiation meeting, the teacher will refer the student, with class work, to the student room using a red card (failure to complete return-to-class negotiation form) at the beginning of their next curriculum lesson.

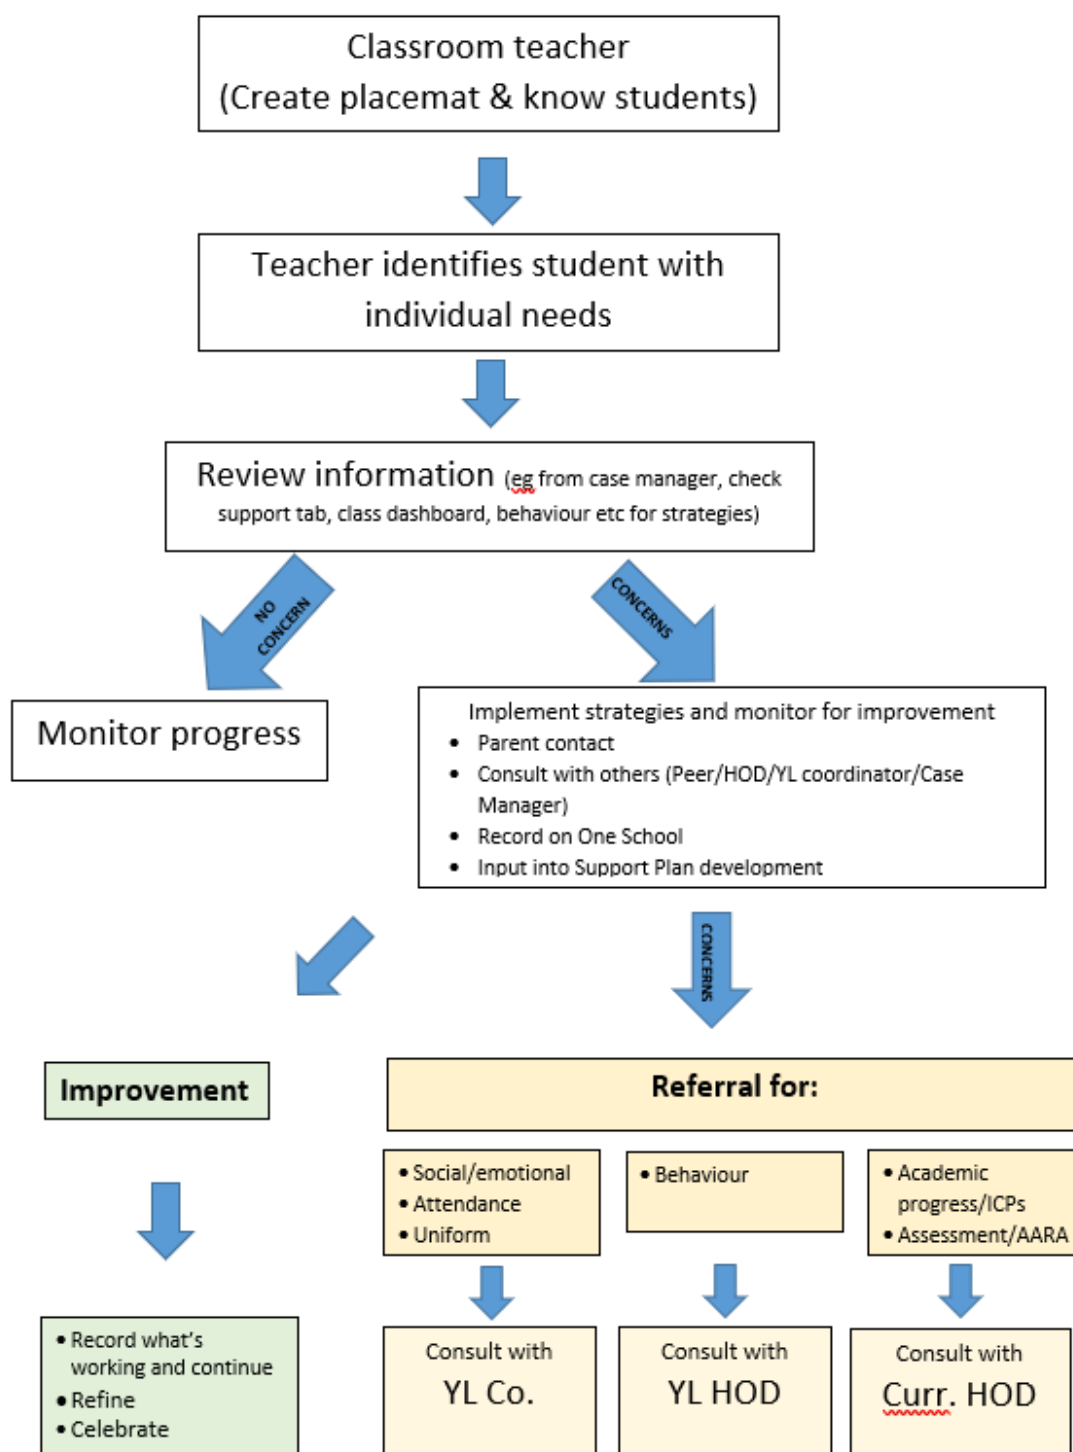

Teachers record this referral on OneSchool as an incident and refer it to the Year Level HOD.

The teacher will contact home to discuss incident.

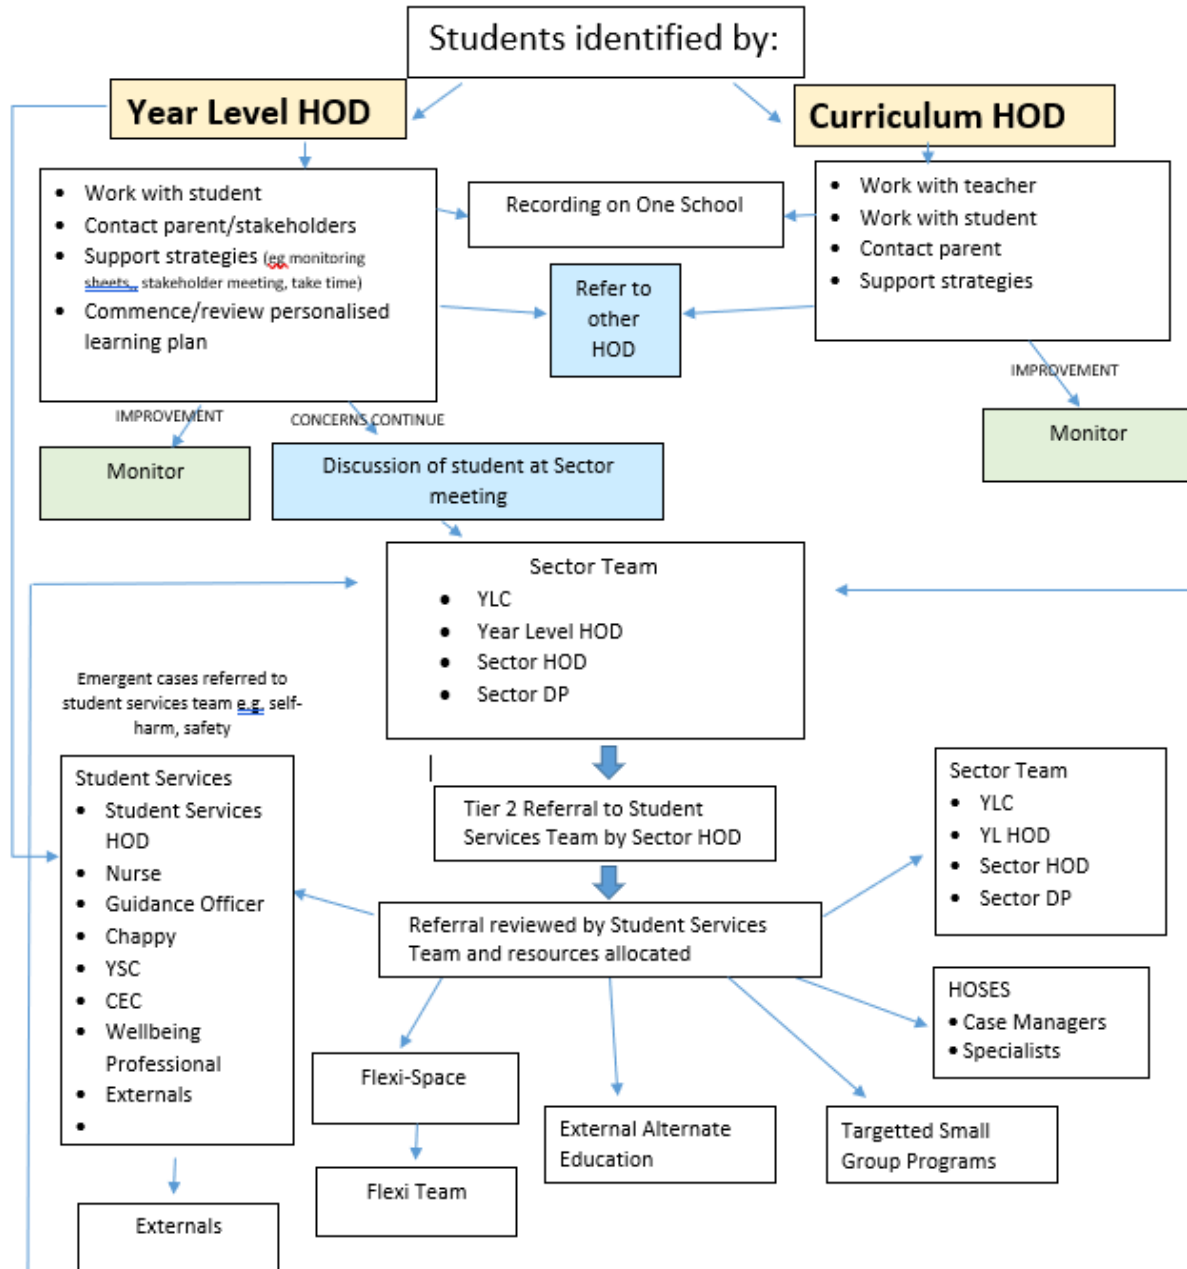

The Year Level HOD will consult with the teacher and student to identify whether additional curriculum related support is necessary, behaviour consequence needs to be applied, or whether the student's circumstances are best referred to the Student Services team.

- take into account the individual's characteristics, social and emotional status, circumstances,
- address behaviour being displayed,
